Conkling jumped to a front window, broke out the glass with his hands and jumped to the ground, but not before he was badly burned. They attempted to reach the stairs, but were overcome by the heat. [illegible] burned. The great blister. The fire department was promptly on hand and extinguished the flames before much damage was done to the building or stock. How the fire started in the rear of the hay loft is a mystery. The body was conveyed to the coroner's where it now lies. Conkling was taken to the police headquarters and is being treated by the city physician. [illegible] brother at Aspen.

Failure for a Million.

New York, December 13.—The well known firm of D. DeCastro & Co., shipping and commission merchants, have failed. The firm was composed of Fernand Perrasa, and Diego DeCastro, and Joseph DeCastro, both of Paris, special partners. The [illegible] house was placed at Caracas. The firm was looked upon as the most influential in the Columbia [illegible], and for a time had most of the South American and Central American trade. At the office of the firm it was said to-day an expected remittance on coffee consigned from [illegible] failed to arrive and this had precipitated the assignment. The attorney for the assignee says the liabilities and assets are roughly estimated at from $750,000 to $1,000,000, about three-fourths of which were due in South and Central America. The firm estimated that there were enough assets to pay the debts in time, but the entire capital of $[illegible] would be gone.

Paris, December 13.—President Carnot's message was submitted to the chambers today. He advocates a policy of conciliation and appeasement and urges the adoption of practical reforms for the improvement of finance. The chambers, he says, in assisting the government to execute this programme will give Europe a precious pledge of France's ardent desire to the consolidation of general peace and to facilitate the development of good foreign relations.

The government is desirous to give a large share of attention to land and sea forces. It is for the chambers to endow the government with power to execute a programme which will secure for the country irreproachable, fruitful activity, thus give Europe a pledge of the ardent desire of France to strengthen general peace and assist in the development of good relations between the powers.

The message was well received. After it had been read the chamber adjourned until Thursday.

H. S. Ives Ar[rested].

New York, December 13.—Henry S. Ives of the defunct banking firm of H. S. Ives & Co. was arrested this afternoon on a warrant issued on a charge of grand larceny made by Julius Dexter, president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railway. The affidavit alleges that on June 6th, '87, a draft for $100,000, sent to Ives as trustee, to be used in part payment of a sum due the Terre Haute and Indianapolis [illegible] was appropriated by Ives for the use of his firm. Ives was taken to the police court, where his counsel claimed the case was one for a civil court. Ives said he did not expect criminal proceedings. Ives was held in $25,000 bail, which his sister furnished.

London, December 13.—An address to be signed by many English Catholics will be presented to Mr. Mason Persico, who was charged by the pope to make a personal investigation of affairs in Ireland, assuring him of their devotion to the holy see, and expressing the hope that his mission will result in inducing the pope to assist in obtaining for Ireland the fulfillment of her national aspirations. The address will repudiate the actions of those English Catholics who have adopted a course of bitter and uncompromising hostility towards Ireland. The address has already been signed by the Marquis of Ripon, Lord Ashburnham, Lord Oxford and other prominent gentlemen, and is now being circulated for signatures among the Catholics of England.

Cincinnati, December 13.—The trial of Benjamin E. Hopkins, late assistant cashier of the Fidelity National bank, began this morning in the United States court, Judge Sage presiding alone. The court struck out six of the forty or fifty counts. The indictment as it remains was stated in substance to be charges of misapplication of the funds of the Fidelity National bank and making false entries in the books of the bank. Defendant pleaded not guilty and the court proceeded to secure a jury.

[illegible] Time.

San Francisco, December 13.—The announcement is made that the new overland time table will go into effect December 21, in conformity with the shortening up of time between Chicago and Omaha. Trains which leave Chicago at seven-thirty in the afternoon will arrive at Omaha in the morning, Ogden on the second night and San Francisco at ten-forty a. m. on the third day, or three days and fifteen hours for the overland journey. The time from San Francisco to Chicago is shortened three days and twenty one hours.

[illegible] Pacific Extension.

Minneapolis, December 13.—A Winnipeg special says: The announcement is made that [illegible] & Co. have received a contract to build an extension of the Seattle railway to the boundary line, which proves that the Canadian Pacific is determined to have another field for a fight and that the line being built from Seattle to the boundary is for the purpose of connection with the extension of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and thus furnish the latter with entry by rail to Washington territory, Oregon and California.

Minister Phelps Banqueted.

London, December 13.—The American [illegible] in London gave a banquet this evening to U. S. Minister Phelps and Sir Edward Thornton, formerly British Minister at Washington, presided. Mr. Phelps responded to a toast offered by Prof. Tyndall, expressed fervent hopes for the prosperity of the club. Many American residents prominent in social and financial circles were present.

He says a league was formed and will include Lincoln, Denver, Pueblo, Topeka, St. Joseph, Leavenworth, with Wichita, Hutchinson, Atchison and Emporia as possibilities.

Both contestants addressed the committee and both submitted printed briefs. The committee discussed the matter for an hour and determined unanimously to report in favor of Mr. Faulkner's title to the vacant seat.

Fiftieth Congress.

SENATE.

Washington, December 13.—After the presentation of a large number of petitions Morrill from the committee on finance reported back the senate bill to credit and pay to the several states and territories and to the District of Columbia all moneys collected under the direct tax act of the fifth of August, 1861.

Other bills were as follows:

By Stanford, to appropriate $100,000 for a quarantine station at San Francisco.

A petition of the council and house of representatives of the territory of Montana was presented in the senate in favor of an amendment of the alien land law, so as to include mineral lands in the territory [illegible] its operations.

Other bills were introduced among them the following:

By Sherman—For the preservation of woods and forests adjacent to the sources of navigable rivers and their affluents.

By Hoar—A constitutional amendment for extension of the congressional term till the last Tuesday in April.

The senate then adjourned until tomorrow.

HOUSE.

A large number of executive communications were laid before the house by the speaker and appropriately referred, and then at 12:20 a recess was taken until 1 o'clock.

After the recess, Speaker Carlisle having called Mills of Texas to the chair, Cannon offered a resolution declaring that the following gentlemen shall constitute the committee on elections: Crisp (chairman), O'Farrell, Outhwaite, Barry, Match, Heard, Johnson of North Carolina, O'Neill of Indiana, Moone, Rowell, Houk, Cooper, Lyman, Johnson of Indiana and Lodge. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The speaker having resumed the chair directed that all papers in the various contested cases be referred to the committee and the house adjourned until Friday.

To [Amend] the I[nter-State Commerce] Act.

Washington, December 13.—The bill introduced by Senator Cullom to-day to amend the inter state commerce act embodies the most important suggestions that have been made for the correction of defects in the law including recommendations of the commissioners. The amendments are voluminous and lengthy in form. Following is a synopsis of the more important provisions:

First—To extend the provisions of the act so as to make the act apply to express sleeping car stock car and tank car companies, and any other companies, associations or persons furnishing for public use upon railroad cars and other instrumentalities for the transportation of persons or property.

Second—The words "other carriers" are inserted twice in the fifth section so as to prohibit pooling between different railroad and other carriers.

Third—In the sixth section, which relates to the publication of rates, provisions with respect to advance and reduction in rates are extended so as to apply specially to joint through rates. The short haul provision is also repealed in order that there shall be no question that it also applies to joint through rates.

Fourth—As to the short haul provision, it is provided that where complaint is made against two or more carriers for violation of it, and the violation occur between points of one only, that road only shall be held liable for the violation.

Fifth—The commission is authorized to prescribe the form in which the schedule prescribed by law for public inspection shall be prepared or arranged. No special form is prescribed in the law.

Sixth—The commission is also authorized to make provision for the official publication of its decisions.

Seventh—An addition to section 15, which relates to compensation for d[illegible]

[illegible] Mill [illegible]... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... by execution by United States ... in the supreme court ... [illegible] may investigate ... [illegible] subject ... United States court of competent jurisdiction to recover damages for the wrong suffered and such proceedings and the finding a report of the commission shall be prima facie evidence of the facts found.

Provision is also made to take the commission out of the jurisdiction of the interior department and make it independent and to report ... to congress as recommended by the secretary of the interior. There are some other minor changes but these are the most important ones.

Chandler's Election Bill.

Washington, December 13.—Chandler has introduced a bill to regulate the holding of congressional elections in the state of South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana. It provides for the appointment by the president with the advice and consent of the senate of four supervisors of election in each congressional district in the states to which the measure applies, who are required to subdivide the districts into a suitable number of voting precincts. In each precinct the circuit court of the United States is to appoint four inspectors and poll clerks who are to make the registration of voters and conduct congressional elections. The supervisors are to act as a canvassing board to receive the returns and ascertain and declare the result. The supervisors and inspectors and poll clerks are to be divided equally between the two principal political parties.

To an associated press reporter, who asked for an explanation of the theory and purpose of the bill, Chandler said it was drawn under that clause of the constitution which provides that the times and places and manner of holding elections for representatives in congress shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof, but congress may by law make or alter such regulations. Said constitutional power is ample, either to pass a general law for all states, one applicable to a number of states or a special law in respect to any particular state. He said: "It is my desire to secure if possible the [passage] of a national election law in those states where there is a manifest and avowed suppression of republican [voters]."

[Chinese] Slavery.

San Francisco, December 13.—Wong Ah Hung, who is said to be a wealthy Chinese merchant, was convicted in the United States district court to-day on a charge of importing two Chinese women for immoral purposes. A number of similar [cases] have been brought to the attention of federal courts recently and custom officials are making further investigations. Twenty seven Chinese women who arrived here a week ago are now detained on a steamer. Circumstances had led the officials to believe they were [purchased] in Hong Kong by Chinese in this city and brought here for immoral purposes. Federal officers are giving the matter their attention. From records seized among the baggage of the women and from testimony given in the court it was discovered that there was a regular traffic in young women, and that they were purchased in China for from two hundred to six hundred dollars each.

[illegible]

Chicago, December 13.—An Owensboro, Ky., special says: Edward Hoag of Denver came here two months ago to marry Miss Ella Brown, one of the belles of the city. Two days before the ceremony was to have been performed, Hoag disappeared mysteriously, and although a vigorous search, lasting four or five weeks, was made for him no trace of his whereabouts could be obtained. He was given up for lost, and his disappearance was set down as a mystery that would never be solved. Yesterday morning a little colored boy found a [illegible] and some clothing on Bon Harbor hills, four miles west of town. The remains were proven to be those of Hoag, and had evidently been exposed during the whole time of his absence. He had over $500 in cash when he was last seen by his friends, and there is strong suspicion that he was murdered for his money.

Orth Stein's Scrape.

Pittsburg, December 13.—Orth Stein, alias John Armitage, arrested here recently for attempting to pass forged checks for $500 to which was attached the signature of John W. Mackey, the California millionaire, had a hearing to-day. As the parties most interested did not seem inclined to prosecute, it was expected Stein would be [released] ... he was finally held for trial at the court on the charge of forging United States cancellation stamps. Stamps were placed on a number of letters which Stein claimed to have received from California, but which had never passed through the mails.

Dempsey Wins.

New York, December 13.—The Dempsey-Reagan prize fight for the middle weight championship took place to-day up the Hudson river. The men met and battled forty five rounds with kid gloves under London prize ring rules, and the fight was won by Dempsey, who outgeneraled Reagan and out-fought him from the very start. Reagan stood up with remarkable gameness under the "Nonpareil's" masterly and powerful strokes, but in the 45th round after the men had been engaged for an hour and nine minutes Reagan's seconds seeing that he had no possible chance of winning threw up the sponge. Reagan had suffered severely while Dempsey was comparatively free from marks of the combat. Only about twenty people were present. The stake was $2000.

[Land] on the Texas Pacific.

Washington, December 13.—The bill introduced by Teller to-day declares that the price of public lands within the limits of the grant to the Texas Pacific railroad from El Paso to San Diego shall be the minimum price of public lands. It also authorizes the refunding of sums in excess of $1.25 per acre paid by settlers on these lands because of their being within the limits of the grant.

No Case Against Wilson.

Paris, December 13.—The court of arraignment has pronounced that no case has been established against M. Wilson, M. Grevy's son-in-law, in connection with the decoration scandal. The charges against him have therefore been dropped.

The Times informant also states that 200 weight of dynamite has been stored secretly in London, but he professed to be unaware of the actual locality.

Votre Escapes.

Denver, December 13.—Positive information reached here to-day that New ton Votre, the Coronado [illegible] who on Sunday killed Officer Hollingsworth, is not wounded as at first reported, but that after the shooting, Sunday evening he and his companions mounted horses and escaped in the darkness. It is thought they are headed for Texas. A posse of officers are in pursuit, but the capture of the outlaws is doubtful.

The [Cherokee] Crisis.

St. Louis, December 13.—Advices from Tahlequah, I. T., say that the ultimatum in the political crisis has been reached by the nationalists calling on the United States government to settle the matter. Agent Owen made a talk to a meeting of both parties and informed the people that he had documents signed by leading men of each party pledging peace. He had telegraphed the Indian office at Washington, and commissioners would be sent at once to settle the matter. National members of the senate and the house refuse to obey Mays' proclamation of an extra session, and most of them have gone to their homes.

[illegible]

Washington, December 13.—In response to a resolution of inquiry the commissioner of agriculture to-day sent a communication to the senate that a patent had been granted to Prof. [Swenson] for improvement in the diffusion process of making sugar, which improvement the commissioner believes was discovered by Professor Swenson while in government employ, while making experiments with the people's money for the benefit of the people. He had protested to the commissioner of patents against granting the patent, but was informed that the patent had already been granted.

Granville at a [Banquet].

London, December 13.—The Eighty club gave a banquet to-night in honor of Earl Granville. In a speech Granville contended that the reception given Hartington and Goschen in Dublin was no test of public opinion. Liberals did not wish to declare dissidents beyond the pale of the party. On the contrary, they wished to bring about reunion by suspension of the Irish question. If the government would look [forward] to settle the Irish question upon reasonable basis of self-government they would have the hearty support of liberals.

Convention at Baltimore.

Baltimore, December 13.—The second annual convention of the National Federation of Labor met in this city. The delegates were received by Mayor Latrobe, who addressed them and tendered the hospitality of the city. N. H. Talbstson, president of the Baltimore Federation of Labor, made an address of welcome. The committee on credentials was appointed and the convention took a recess until 2:30 p. m.

Carnot's Cabinet Weak.

Paris, December 13.—The formation of the Tirard ministry was brought about by threats of President Carnot to resign if M. Tirard refused to go ahead with his task. It is now called the "Carnot cabinet." The organ of M. Clemenceau and other radical organs make violent attacks on the new government, which it is expected will collapse after the holidays.

Pyne and the Police.

Dublin, December 13.—Pyne, M. P., who has been barricaded in Lisfinny castle, resisting the efforts of police to arrest him, left the castle early this morning, eluding the police sentinels, and taking a car that was awaiting him to drive to an unknown place. The police are scouring the country for him.

To Refund Fifteen Millions.

Washington, December 13.—The senate committee on finance held its first meeting this morning and ordered a favorable report on the Morrill bill to refund to the states the direct taxes imposed by the act of 1861. The aggregate is about fifteen millions. It is the bill passed by the senate last session.

Petition for the Knights.

Philadelphia, December 13.—A secret circular signed by Grand Master Workman Powderly is being received by secretaries of various local assemblies throughout the country, together with blank petitions to congress in favor of the establishment of a government [telegraph].

An Embezzling Am[bassador].

London, December 13.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that General Willoughby, until recently ambassador of Madagascar in London, was convicted on his return to Madagascar of the embezzlement of 12,000 pounds and sentenced to imprisonment for an indefinite period.

One of our exchanges thinks that Secretary Lamar will be confirmed as supreme court judge, because of the unwritten law of the senate. The unwritten law is not always observed. Ex-... Williams when attorney general in Grant's cabinet was nominated as judge of the supreme court. It was found that he could not be confirmed and so his name was withdrawn.

One objection urged to Secretary Lamar's confirmation is that he has been a life-long advocate of state rights, and in any decision affecting this issue he will ... against the northern view of the constitution. This is not true or else Mr. L... is very insincere. In his very able oration on Mr. Calhoun, he was very careful to state that the doctrine of state rights was dead and it had only historic interest.

One of the most terrible indictments of the protective tariff is that in regard to shipping. A table is given showing the gradual decline of the amount of American merchandise carried in American vessels. In 1856, we carried seventy-five per cent in our own vessels. This amount has been decreasing year by year until now less than a fourth per cent of our products are carried in our own vessels. We have had a protection that does not protect. It has not enabled our ship builders to build ships, and has driven our commerce from the seas.

The First Fatal Step to Foppery.

... in the ... Star ...

A friend of mine who is rather violently disturbed over the matter of his personal appearance in discussing the matter the other day, playfully remarked: "Frank R. Stockton once wrote a story about a man who bought a Queen Anne gate, and was then lured on from one purchase to another under the spell of the decorative craze until he was obliged to build a Queen Anne cottage to ... his belongings. The man who falls a victim to clothes does it a good deal in the same way, and Stockton ought to be able to write a corking good story about a poor wretch who goes off in a sudden flight of vanity and extravagance and purchases a pair of overgaiters, from which he is led on to be a monumental and stupendous fop. It is when man commits his first indiscretion in the way of the elegancies of attire that his downfall begins. If you are dressed in rough clothes, and heavy boots you will look as well as long as your attire is in harmony. But the very instant you buy a pair of overgaiters you observe that your trousers looked a bit fringed at the bottom. You buy new ones. Then you find that you want them ironed to be in the style. They are ironed. After this the conviction is slowly but surely forced upon you that the shoes are not quite up to the standard of gaiters. You buy new shoes, and patent leather ones of course, as there is no use going half way. By this time there is no shadow of doubt that the coat looks rusty and after you have bought a new coat and vest, you find that a fancy waistcoat is almost as necessary as food. You buy the waistcoat. Then after a short struggle, you are obliged to admit that smooth bosomed shirts are by no means in harmony with the rest of your attire. Hence, plain and ribbed fronts, huge cuffs, high collars. After this, expensive cravats, and, finally, if you are not very careful, a fierce and ungovernable yearning for a single glass. This is the place to draw the line though it is not always drawn by the well dressed men of New York. Then you want a rose in your buttonhole, and, finally, you sally forth with the latest beaver hat and the reddest of gloves and feel yourself completely dressed. Then the trouble is that by the time all this is accomplished, you suddenly discover that the overgaiters look a little bit frayed. Then the boots need refurnishing and there is a wrinkle in the back of the coat, but worst of all, the trowsers bag a little at the knees, and it is the unwritten law of all the swelldom that by his trowsers shall ye know him. From that time on about one third of your life must be given up to considerations of dress or you will miss accomplishing what has become a cherished and and overmastering ambition. My advice to a friend is to beware of the first step for ... you may become a fop.

ROBERT COLLYER AT HOME.

Sketch of a ... Divine of the ...

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Some men grow into prominence like the oak, which, springing from an acorn gradually, without volition, lifts its head to the skies. Such a man is Robert Collyer, the pastor of the Church of the Messiah in this city. Born in a humble village in Yorkshire, England, first a factory hand, then a blacksmith, afterward a traveling preacher, he stands today as one of the foremost pulpit orators in the land. His intellectual growth is hidden from analysis. He chose a path, followed it like a child, and it led him to the mountain top. He owes nothing to ambition, have ... he followed his natural impulses. Mr. Collyer resides at 1?? East Thirty-fourth street, in a plain brick house, for, although he receives $10,000 a year from his ... he ... Every week he writes a new sermon, generally upon some life types of the day. A ... vendor of the newspapers, he finds no dearth of timely subjects. ... recently I paid him a visit. He was in his study ... proofs of a new product of his pen, entitled "Talks to Young Men with Asides to Young Women." It will shortly be published by Lee & Shepard of Boston. His library is a large, square room on the top floor of the house. The floor is of variegated wood with here and there a rug. On the four walls are high shelves lined with books, above them portraits and engravings. Unlike the libraries of many literary men, there is no litter of papers and confusion of books to be rifled here. Everything is in the most scrupulous order. As I entered the room Mr. Collyer arose from the wide flat table where he was working and bade me be seated. He has changed but little since I heard him preach his first sermon in the Church of the Messiah eight years ago.

His large fine head, with its plenteous gray hair, his broad, good natured, completely human face which any child or man would trust, look the same as at that time. Perhaps his figure is more ample, otherwise he is unchanged. I asked him the secret of his superb health. He smiled good humoredly and replied in his characteristic way:

"My childhood was passed in a cottage containing two rooms, and as little looking right into the eye of the sun and away toward great purple moors where the air was fresh and pure and healthful. "Do you wonder at my health?"

Then in his simple, unaffected manner he told me the story of his life; of his childhood, made beautiful by the love of a blue eyed, gentle mother; of his factory days, when he worked from 6 in the morning until 8 at night for a mere pittance; of his days of apprenticeship to a drunken blacksmith; of his courtship, marriage, emigration to America; of his ... from place to place expounding the Gospel while plying his trade of blacksmith, until he came to that eventful day when he stood amid the smoldering ruins of his church in Chicago the Sunday after the great fire, preaching words of comfort and strength to his terror stricken congregation. The Pur... of Pain

The Spectator.

It is not conceivably possible—we offer it as a suggestion to be considered and not as a theory to be accepted—that the object with which pain is sent into the world is not the development of man's moral nature so much as the development of his energy. Man can do one thing which God from his very perfectness cannot do, and that is make an effort, and whatever the grand concealed purpose, a part of it must be that man should strive. We may not see what he can do by striving, or how he can add by striving to the store of force in the universe, but if he were not intended to strive, to develop will and display energy, and make exertions, the world would surely have been made a very different one from what it is. It is always whipping him on, him and the animals too.

There are only two forms of pain which are absolutely universal among sentient creatures, which men feel as strongly as women, and animals more keenly than both, and which human beings, whether refined or degraded, absolutely refuse to endure, and those two are hunger and thirst, the two grand impelling forces of the world. Without those two pains, there would be no world such as we know it. The wild animals would saunter away life doing nothing, the useful beast released alike from hunger and the whip, would be worthless to man, and man himself, though he might reflect as well as saunter, would scarcely be brought to work.

New York's Cancer Hospital.

New York city has a cancer hospital, recently opened for patients, which is a splendid monument of Christian charity and an honor to the city. The building is the gift of John Jacob Astor. Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton Cullum also contributed liberally toward the purchase of grounds and other necessities and a few of the wealthy men of Wall street gave $5,000 or $10,000 each. The building is at the corner of One Hundred and Fifth street and Eighth avenue, and is a rectangle, 100x50 feet in extent, with round towers on each of the three corners next the street. It is in these towers that the unique and very convenient feature of the hospital appears. Up the center of the tower runs a large ventilating shaft, and from it the beds extend out to the circular wall like spokes from the hub. The southeast tower is fitted up for patients who desire and can pay for extreme privacy, for the general plan is to take patients of means as well as those who can pay little or nothing. There are accommodations ample for seventy-seven patients. The operating room is as light as the outer air, yet well secured, there are ... seats in the usual style for clinics and an elevator on which the patient, lying upon his bed, is gently raised to the room. All the arrangements for administering anæsthetics are very complete. The situation of the hospital is as pleasant as...

The Famous Caspian Lily.

A still more ... afternoon I spent in visiting the haunts of the far famed Nymph of the Caspian. Neither rock nor whirlpool besets the approach to this coy beauty, but as the siren can be seen only in her bath from the luxurious heat of which she draws not a few of her charms, one might well be led to prefer both Scylla and Charybdis to the peril of the brink to which this fascinator lures unsuspecting travelers at Chyulpan. Yet the danger is much more apparent than real. The Nympha Caspica has broken up no households and precipitated no fratricidal wars, the worst that can be said against her is that she has ... a deep and never to be satisfied longing in the heart of ... Men of science, tender in their admiration of her beauty, and wishing to see it flourish elsewhere, have carried her virtues to foreign parts in vain. This tall, lily like flower, with its overflowing bulb of tender pink, bearing its seeds in a pinnacled gourd, and bathed far up in its slender stem by a continual flow of well nigh boiling water, mysteriously renewed—this queen of the desert, unquestionably Chyulpan, scattering her perfume over land and sea, is the unique product of unique conditions, and can be no more be transplanted than the Caspian itself.—The Atlantic.

... Observation.

The following is taken from the annual report of the ... of the Harvard college observatory.

In the prosecution of work supported by the Boyden fund the director and Mr. W. A. Pickering visited Colorado for a part of the summer to examine suitable sites for a mountain observatory, and to study the transparency and steadiness of the air at different altitudes. An object glass 12 inches in aperture was directed to the pole star, two images of which were formed by a double image prism. The diameters of these images were measured at different places, under various atmospheric conditions. Photographs of the trail of the spectrum of bright stars also served to measure the steadiness of the air. Its clearness was determined by similar observations near the horizon, and also by photographing the trail of this near the pole and near the horizon during same phase. Investigations were also made on the spectrum of the sun, with the aid of quartz lenses and prisms. Meteorological work, especially that done with self-recording instruments, was also undertaken, and arrangements were made for its continuance at various points in Colorado by the kind assistance of Professor Loud. Corresponding observations of all the kinds above described are made in Cambridge. Among the points considered in Colorado were the summit of Pike's Peak, 14,000 feet above sea level, Seven Lakes, 11,000, and Colorado Springs, 6,000 feet. Visits were also made to Mt. Lincoln, 14,300 feet, Mt. Bross 14,000 feet, and various railroad stations at altitudes exceeding 11,000 feet. Much geodetic work was also accomplished. An extensive correspondence has been carried on in order to secure information about mountainous regions in all parts of the world, and plans are already prepared for observations in Peru, where two railroads respectively reach the heights of 15,800 and 14,000 feet. A telescope 13 inches in aperture, so constructed as to be available either for direct observation or for photographic work, is nearly completed by the firm of Alvan Clark & Sons. A second telescope eight inches in aperture, for use in making photographic charts of the stars, will be mounted on the same stand. These instruments will be tested at Cambridge, where a building is nearly completed for them. A second ... next summer.

Browning-Worship Growing.

Boston Herald.

Under the wise direction of Colonel Higginson, who is himself a Browning student of many years' standing, the Boston Browning society is beginning to be something more than a collection of aspirated men and women who had a successive admiration for one another and were chiefly notable for knowing next to nothing of ... the author whom they were seeking to honor. The recent meetings have been as effective as one could expect from a company who are not well acquainted with one another, and the exercises have had a character of their own that made it worth while to attend them. A ... ted with Colonel Higginson is a strong executive committee, who are pledged to see that the monthly meetings shall be made profitable to the members, and the sessions are now so interesting and valuable to those who really care for Browning that at every meeting many gladly pay the ... fee of fifty cents in order to be able to enjoy the instructions. Mr. Sam P. B[illegible], a prominent attorney of Denver, registered at The Antlers yesterday.

Mail service has been established on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad between Denver and Pueblo.

Ericson & Gough, proprietors of the Chicago Bakery, have received a fine line of Christmas goods in the line of candy, toys, etc.

The Young Ladies Missionary society will give a sociable at Mr. Eli Johnson's residence on North Weber street tomorrow evening.

The W. S. Jackson Hose company will realize something in the neighborhood of $125 from the proceeds of their recent ball in the opera house.

Mr. C. F. Elwell, who resided at the corner of Cheyenne and Nevada avenues last summer, died at his residence in New York city last Friday.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad will soon begin the erection of a four stall roundhouse, one turntable and a twenty-pocket coal chute in their yards in this city.

The funeral of Mrs. George W. De La Vergne will take place this afternoon at two o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

Track laying on the Midland near Glenwood Springs and Aspen will be finished this week, and the large force of men who have been engaged in this work will be discharged.

The Cascade Ice company are erecting [illegible] of large ice houses near their reservoirs at Husted. The Newton Lumber company of this city are furnishing the material.

Yesterday bids were received for the construction of the new Presbyterian church, but as some changes have been made with regard to the character of the stone, it was decided to postpone the reception of bids until to day.

As will be seen by an advertisement in another column, Mrs. Nicholson, No. 11 Cascade terrace, Kiowa street, will make designs for and teach embroidery and fine needlework and take orders for materials. Her designs are very artistic.

Among our advertisements this morning will be found one of Miss Murphy, modiste, late of New York, who comes highly recommended by her former patrons. The illness of a sister brought her to this place where she hopes to carry on her business.

Another instance of sneak thieving occurred on Monday evening. A large [illegible] buffalo robe was stolen from the front of Aiken's museum on Pike's Peak avenue. Mr. Aiken offers a reward of $5 for the return of the robe, $5 for the arrest of the thief and $20 reward for evidence that will convict him.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather there was a very good attendance at the rehearsal of the Mozart Choral society last evening. It was decided not to announce the soloists for the forthcoming concert until next week.

Yesterday morning the county commissioners awarded the contract for furnishing and erecting four steel cells in the county jail to the Pauly Jail Building and Manufacturing company of St. Louis. The company were represented at the meeting by Mr. P. J. Mr. J. B. Orman of Pueblo, was one of [illegible] the invest[illegible] in the stock of the Colorado Springs and Manitou Street Railway company. He purchased $2,500 worth of stock in the company, and his example has lately been followed by his partner, Mr. J. J. Cook, who has invested a like amount. Both of these gentlemen [illegible] of the Pueblo Street Railway company and the fact of their investing in the stock of the local company shows that they have strong faith in its future success and prosperity.

About eighty members of Pike's Peak Lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., assembled last evening to witness the taking of the degree of sisters of Rebekah by seventeen ladies. The following persons were admitted to the degree: Mrs. E. S. Leighton, Mrs. M. E. Fuller, Mrs. M. M. Pierson, Mrs. D. A. Rose, Mrs. M. A. Dozier, Miss Iona Dozier, Mrs. L. H. Kieffer, Miss A. K. There are now fifty members of this degree in the city. After the above named ladies had taken the degree a very interesting musical programme was rendered which was heartily enjoyed by all present. At ten o'clock the company repaired to the Alamo hotel where a substantial collation was served under the direct supervision of the proprietor, Mr. John M. Sellers. The collation was in every respect a credit to the hotel and its popular manager.

At a special meeting of the Colorado Springs Gun club, held on December 13th, 1887, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, the relentless hand of death has taken our president, Mr. Edmisten Gwynne, from our midst, therefore be it

Resolved, That by Mr. Gwynne's death we lose the companionship of a genuine lover of sport, of a sincere and true gentleman, and of a kind and noble-hearted man.

Resolved, That we cherish his memory, remembering his constant devotion to and strong interest in the affairs of the club.

Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved wife and mourning relations our sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes; that they be published in the papers of Colorado Springs and Columbus, Ohio, and that a copy properly engrossed be delivered to Mr. Gwynne's family.

The county commissioners were in session yesterday during the entire day and transacted a considerable amount of business. It was ordered that the right of way be granted to the Colorado Springs & Manitou Street Railway company to construct a single track street railway with the necessary turnouts on the north side of the county road between Colorado Springs and Colorado City, on the following conditions: Said company shall lay their track on the north side of the county road as near to the north line of said road as will permit of their cars keeping within the right of way and shall lay the track on such grade as may be established by the county surveyor and approved by the county commissioners.
